Smuts Dies at 80 In South Africa

Military Funeral Planned for Former Premier; Messages Sent

JAN CHRISTIAAN SMUTS
Pretoria, South Africa, Sept. 12 (AP)—South Africa today planned a military funeral for her greatest soldier and one of the democratic world's foremost statesmen—Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts.

The spade-headed Smuts, a leader in the three wars and two world peace movements, died last night in his 81st year. He had been ill since a back ailment forced him to bed May 28, four days after his 80th birthday.

Funeral services will be held Friday at Pretoria's leading Dutch Reformed Church, the "Groot Kerk." Burial probably will be at Smuts' farm, "Doornkloof," where he died. It is 10 miles from Pretoria.

A military funeral was being arranged at the request of Smuts' family.

The field marshal's physician said death resulted from a heart collapse following a cerebral embolism, or settlement of a blood clot in the brain. Pneumonia, influenza and heart strain had complicated the old fighter's condition.

Sympathy Expressed
From around the world, expressions of sympathy poured in to the family of the field marshal, twice prime minister of the union of South Africa, statesman, philosopher, counselor of kings, and an organizer of both the League of Nations and the United Nations.

The messages reflected the ironic contrast in Smuts' varied career, which started with his leading Commando raids against the British in the Boer War and ended with his being a bulwark of the British Commonwealth of Nations. It was Smuts who in 1917 first suggested a British commonwealth as apart from the empire.

This, and British honors, helped earn him the resentment of some of his embittered die-hard countrymen.

Hurricane Veers Off New England; Damage Reported

Mountainous Seas Smash Over Seawalls; Fishing Boats Are Having Trouble

Boston, Sept. 12 (AP)—A powerful Atlantic hurricane whistled out to sea early today after brushing the New England coast with winds up to 70 miles an hour.

The blow smashed small boats at moorings, endangered coastal shipping, snapped power lines and toppled trees before it turned seaward 80 miles east of Nantucket Island, off the Massachusetts coast. Mountainous seas battered beaches, smashing over seawalls in some sections. Property damage, however, was not extensive.

One fishing vessel was reported in trouble off the Massachusetts coast and another made port at Provincetown after sending out a distress call.

Fought Terrible Seas
The 67-foot fishing vessel Muriel M. Russell of New Bedford, carrying a dozen men, reported she was fighting terrible seas 12 miles south, southeast of Pollock Rip Lightship.

She radioed that something had caught in her propeller. Two coast guard craft—the Legare of New Bedford and the Hornbush of Woods Hole—headed for her position. A Quonset, R. I., based coast guard plane also was alerted.

Earlier the Boston fishing drifter Eugene J. radiocast she was having trouble 25 miles southeast of the tip of Cape Cod. She reported later, however, that she had docked at Provincetown.

To Pass Provincetown
The Boston Weather Bureau said the storm—still holding 100-mile winds in its center—would move no closer to land and probably would pass Canada's maritime provinces.

The district forecaster reported gales up to 70 miles an hour hit Nantucket at the height of the blow. The maritime provinces, he said, probably would get the same force winds.

High winds stripped valuable apple orchards in some sections. A number of Massachusetts communities were in darkness.

GOP Takes Maine Posts In 8th Sweep

Primary Voting Holds Interest Now, Mainly in New Hampshire in Tobey's Race

Six Others Vote

Parties in Several States Ballot for Favorites

(By The Associated Press)
Seven scattered states held primary elections today, but chief national interest remained centered on New England where Maine voters ran true to form yesterday and kept Republicans in all major offices.

The Maine voting, always first in the nation, was the initial statewide election since the war broke out in Korea. Democrats, despite their traditional decided minority, put up an unusually stiff campaign.

But the voters returned to office Republican Governor Frederick G. Payne and three sitting G.O.P. House members, Reps. Robert Hale, Charles P. Nelson and Frank Fellows. It was the state's eighth straight Republican sweep.

With only a few small and scattered precincts uncounted, the G.O.P. polled the same percentage of votes—61 per cent—as it did in 1946, also a non-presidential year. Payne's margin fell off compared with two years ago when he drew 65 per cent of the vote.

Attracting most interest in today's primary voting was New York's election of a new governor.

Public May Not Feel Shortages At Once; Steel Gets Assistance

Three Agencies Checking Wreck Killing 33 Men

U. S. Senator Demands Nationwide Survey of Safety Rules of Railways

Coshocton, O., Sept. 12 (AP)—Three separate agencies launched investigations today into a tragic troop train wreck that claimed the lives of 33 persons—most believed to be soldiers.

And, less than 24 hours after the crash, U. S. Senator Francis Myers (D-Pa.) demanded a nationwide inquiry into railroad safety practices.

The investigations center around yesterday's wreck, which also injured at least 50 persons.

Investigations were begun by the Pennsylvania Railroad, whose streamlined "Spirit of St. Louis" crashed into the troop train at nearby West Lafayette; the Ohio military district, and the National Guard.

The investigators want to know why the streamliner passed flares and crashed into the stalled troop train.

Two National Guard officers from Washington—Col. C. F. Sawyer and Lt. Col. H. J. Bersace—arrived last night to conduct the guard's investigation. The dead soldiers were guardsmen.

The counter intelligence division of the Ohio military district began its investigation earlier, as did the railroad.

Identification Sought
As the investigations proceeded, the army still was struggling to complete identification of 11 of the 33 dead, also believed to be Pennsylvania National Guardsmen.

Their train, carrying 500 guardsmen to Camp Aftersbury, Ind., stalled with a broken air hose on a foggy stretch of the Pennsylvania Railroad near this eastern Ohio town at 5:10 a. m. (E.S.T.) yesterday.

Five minutes later, despite red flares placed on the track, the Pennsylvania streamliner "Spirit of St. Louis" crashed into the rear of the stalled train.

Today, 17 of the seriously injured had been flown to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base Hospital near Dayton. Ten others were at Coshocton Memorial Hospital.

The dead were to be removed to the army at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., accompanied by an honor guard for each victim. Most lived in that vicinity or near Carbondale, Pa.

Training Is Begun
The uninjured guardsmen were taken on to camp Aftersbury last night to begin training for active service with the army. They are members of Pennsylvania's 28th Infantry Guard Division.

In Wilkes-Barre, Mayor Luther W. Kniffen proclaimed a week of mourning for casualties of the wreck.

However, Bigger Sums Will Be Taken From Pay October 1; Government Asks Statement on Proposed Production Expansion

Washington, Sept. 12 (AP)—The first cautious steps to rearm America indicated today it may be months before consumers are hit anywhere but in the pocketbook.

Curbs on installment buying go into effect next Monday. Higher income taxes probably will start taking a bigger bite out of pay checks Oct. 1. There were signs the wartime lack of some goods would not be duplicated, at least not soon.

In the steel industry, which supplies material for cars, refrigerators, construction, television, etc., the initial government move was toward easing the pinch of President Truman's projected $30,000,000,000-a-year arms program.

The government asked the industry to figure out just how much it can expand production capacity, which has just passed the 100,000,000-ton-a-year mark and is at the highest point in history. Industry promised a prompt answer.

Officers of 21 steel companies, big and little, met in the Commerce Department yesterday with Secretary Sawyer and William H. Harrison. On leave from the presidency of International Telephone and Telegraph Co., Harrison had just been sworn in as boss of the new National Production Authority (N.P.A.). The President set up N.P.A. in the Commerce Department to help boost the output of guns, planes and tanks.

A dozen executives of copper companies were called for a similar conference today. Other meetings are on tap with spokesmen for aluminum and other industries.

But the government was just getting organized for the big effort to build up muscle to hit back at Communist aggression in Korea or anywhere else it may break out.

It was only last Friday that Mr. Truman signed the honor troop mobilization bill giving him broad authority to apply controls. And on Saturday he started putting the "War Relocation Act" into effect.

Powder Plant Blast Kills 8 Persons, 10 Are Injured

Two-Mile Area Is Rocked by Explosion Near Eldred, Pa., at 8:30 Today

Eldred, Pa., Sept. 12 (AP)—Eight persons were reported killed today in an explosion at the National Powder Company plant near here.

A terrific blast rocked the plant area two miles north of Eldred about 8:30 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.

"Unofficially eight persons were reported killed and possibly five or 10 injured," reported a telephone official. "The eight were killed outright."

Said the official who declined to be named, "I was downtown when the explosion occurred. At first I thought the whole town blew up. Windows broke everywhere."

The blast shattered windows in houses two miles from the scene and was heard 10 miles away.

It occurred in one of the mix houses of the National Powder Company which makes nitroglycerine and dynamite.

Reported deaths were among employees of the company. The injured were being taken to hospitals at Gettysburg and Olean, N. Y.

T. T. Cook, secretary of the powder company, said the plant's mix house was demolished and several nearby buildings were damaged. He declined to estimate the amount of damage.

Cause Unknown
"We have no idea what caused the explosion," he said.

"We're still not sure just who was killed. The injured men were not hurt badly. They were treated at the plant for surface cuts by our plant doctor."

The powder company, which manufactures high explosives for commercial use, is the largest industry in this small community of several thousand persons.

Eldred is about four miles from the New York state border in northwestern Pennsylvania.

Cook said: "We're on guard against explosions like this and we have given every possible aid to the injured. We called extra doctors in right away. Workers unaffected by the explosion were cleared from the plant grounds."

Firemen Are Called
Firemen were called at 11:20 a. m. today to Wurts and Abel street to check a slight fire in a truck owned by Old Capital Motors Inc., 300 Broadway. The blaze was caused by a short circuit and slightly damaged wiring. Men from Cornell station responded.

Hill Gives Anchor for Defenses

General Walker Reports Worst Is Over in a Broad Way, Can Now Stop Reds

Blast Fleeing Reds

Communist Supply Line and Communication Are Cut

Tokyo, Sept. 12 (AP)—American First Cavalrymen stormed uphill through a withering day-long barrage of Red Korean gunfire and at dusk won a peak commanding a main northern approach to Taegu.

The troopers in battle strength 1,000—won Hill 31, eight miles north of Taegu, a heavy cost.

"They knew their job was to check what was officially called 'the main threat' to Taegu northwest anchor of the allied line."

The hill had been held by a outpost of some 40,000 Red Koreans, massed for a fresh assault upon the South Korean provisionally held line.

Another outpost remained on a nearby peak.

Allied big guns and warplanes hurled a curtain of steel at the Reds before the assault.

Then the troopers hit the slopes. They fought tooth-and-nail the distance in five bitter hours.

But the Reds, throwing a barrage of artillery, mortar and machinegun fire from the two peaks stalled the drive at that point throughout most of Tuesday afternoon.

The troopers finally stormed the summit at nightfall and took it.

Strong Position
AP correspondent Jack MacBeth, who was pinned behind brick wall by Red gunfire to more than one hour, said capture of Hill 311 gave the Allies a strong, right anchor commanding the Taegu-Pohang road.

14 Gen. Walton H. Walker speaking of the wartime combat, said Tuesday night "the worst is over."

The commander of Allied ground forces and the U. S. 8th Army in Korea said, however, in a brief statement that the enemy still held the initiative and was "capable of lifting us anywhere on our 125-mile perimeter." He concluded: "I am now sure we can stop him."

Inland from the east coast port of Pohang, a secret Allied force struck swiftly westward seeking to trap 3,000 Communists blocked from retreat southward by a South Korean column.

The Reds were strung along a corridor between high peaks. The task force, led by a famous West Point football star whose name cannot be disclosed now for security reasons, fought to close the corridor's southern gate.

Many Casualties
It inflicted heavy casualties on two Red battalions dug in on bare and rocky slopes.

United Nations forces, striking north in the same general sector, cut the Angang-Pohang road.

This drive increased the already difficult supply and communication problems for Korean Reds.

AP Correspondent Ben Price, with the South Korean First Corps, reported observation posts had spotted hundreds of Red fleeing toward Angang. Allied planes blasted the fleeing Reds. A U. S. pilot called the air strikes "a blood day."

An 8th Army spokesman said a partial withdrawal was indicated.

To the west, the South Korean Eighth Division drove within eight miles of Angang on the Yongchun-Angang road. Angang, nine miles southwest of Pohang, was seized by the Reds last week in their massive breakthrough.

10-Mile Advance
The spokesman said the South Korean Eighth drove ahead nearly 10 miles in two days. He described the situation along this front as "tremendously improved."

The three-pronged drive on the northeast front mentioned two

Federal Government Gives States Short Change, Report

Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., Sept. 12 (AP)—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware are being "shortchanged" by federal projects in other parts of the nation, the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin was told today.

James H. Allen, Incodel executive secretary, in a speech prepared for delivery at a panel discussion on federal water policies at Incodel's 14th annual meeting said:

"The four states on the Delaware river, attempting eagerly to solve their own land and water conservation problems by mutual agreement and expenditures, are at the same time footing an unfair share of the bill for similar projects throughout the nation, most of which are in the west and south. Our people are, frankly, holding the bag while politicians hold the pork barrel."

Incodel is an agency created by the four states in 1936 to study conservation needs and to give advice on their solution along the Delaware river.

Other scheduled speakers agreed that the states should have a greater determination of their programs, just as Incodel is proposing a four-state plan for a series of dams and reservoirs in the Delaware river basin to serve approximately 20,000,000 people.

Allen said not more than five

GOP Takes Maine

Hampshire. Republican Senator Charles W. Tobey was opposed for nomination for a third term by Wesley Powell, an attorney and former administrative assistant to Tobey's colleague, G.O.P. Senator Styles Bridges.

Self-Styled Liberal
Tobey is one of the self-styled Republican liberals in the Senate. Powell argued that his position amounted to "Fruminism." Tobey pointed to his experience in Washington.

The race was regarded as close. Emmet J. Kelly, national committeeman, was unopposed for the Democratic nomination. Tobey was one of only two senators who faced opposition in today's primaries. The other is Senator Carl Hayden, Arizona Democrat, who had two opponents for his party's nomination.

Without opposition in their states were Senators Eugene D. Millikin (R-Colo.), George D. Aiken (R-Vt.) and Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.). No senatorial seats were at stake in Michigan and Minnesota, which had gubernatorial and House races.

Other States

Arizona—Hayden, seeking a fifth term, was opposed for the Democratic nomination by Cecil H. Miller, Phoenix cattleman, and Robert E. Miller, Phoenix druggist and a 1948 backer of Henry A. Wallace, Bruce Brockett, Rimrock rancher, had no opposition for the G.O.P. nomination.

Vermont—James Bigelow of Bigelow Falls had no opposition for the right to oppose Aiken in November. Five men, including Gov. Harold J. Arthur, sought the G.O.P. nomination for the state's lone House seat, being vacated. Three were after the G.O.P. gubernatorial nomination.

Colorado—Rep. John A. Carr was assured the Democratic nomination to oppose Millikin in November. The Republican contest for Governor attracted most interest. Former Gov. Ralph L. Carr contested it with Ray H. Branham, former Veterans of Foreign Wars national commander. Gov. Walter H. Johnson was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Washington—Four Republicans sought their party bid for the right to oppose Magnuson in the general election.

Michigan—Seeking party nomination for 17 House seats were 51 Republicans and 68 Democrats. One district alone brought out 22 Democratic and five G.O.P. candidates. Rep. Albert J. Engel and four others contested for the Republican gubernatorial nomination to meet Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who had no primary opponent, in November.

Minnesota—Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl had four opponents for the Republican nomination. Eight Democrats sought the right to oppose him.

The National Guard in Pennsylvania said, meanwhile, that only one of the dead had National Service Life Insurance, the government policy for members of the armed forces. Most had planned to apply for the policies when they reached Camp Atterbury.

While the separate investigations of the disaster continued, the Pennsylvania Railroad declined comment on the cause. Several officials, who declined to be quoted, theorized that the engineer of the "Spirit of St. Louis" could not see the troop train's signal flares in the early morning fog.

Work Differences Are Not Settled

Differences which caused a work stoppage yesterday on two local construction jobs were not ironed out today a union spokesman said.

The Broadway crossing and Washington school projects are the two affected, and C. H. Mayer, business agent for Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Construction Workers, said a new contract calls for a wage rate of $1.75 an hour, a raise of 20 cents on the hour.

Mayer was out of the city today, but it was said that no agreement had been reached. An early settlement was expected yesterday, however. Mayer said yesterday that most contractors in the region had signed new contracts which were effective Aug. 1.

"However," he added, "these states contribute approximately 30 per cent, or about $300,000,000 to the total."

The executive secretary argued that the policy of "spending only one dollar for every six collected from us doesn't represent a very good bargain even though we may have an obligation to help other sections of the U. S. which are less fortunate economically. It is Incodel's belief that people of the areas directly benefited by federal programs should pay an equitable and substantial part of the cost."

Chandler Stresses Civic Importance Of Hospital Plans

New York city, Sept. 11.—"The building program to be undertaken at The Kingston Hospital will be a major factor in the continuing development of Kingston as one of the finest communities in America in which to live and work."

These words represent the considered judgment of a man who is an authority on Kingston, the hospital and the relationship of medical science to the broadening scope of human life. He is Dr. George F. Chandler, now living here in retirement after a career in surgery and public service which began in Kingston and extended throughout New York state and into many corners of the nation.

Dr. Chandler will visit Kingston Thursday evening to speak at a dinner meeting to be held at the Governor Clinton under the auspices of The Kingston Hospital building fund.

In a recent interview at the Century Club not far from his Park avenue residence Dr. Chandler viewed with much interest the architect's plans for the hospital construction program which will follow completion of the $450,000 building fund movement. "The community importance of the project," he said, "far transcends the other vital points of view from which it can be measured.

"Kingston was, is and always will be, by the very nature of its geography, a place in which people may live, work and make their homes," the doctor observed. "Maintenance of up-to-date hospital facilities for the protection of health is therefore, a community project in which every resident of the Kingston area has an understandably selfish interest."

Most of us who have been connected with Kingston Hospital," continued Dr. Chandler who, as a surgeon, performed as many as 1,760 operations there in one year, "have had personal opportunities to know what its facilities, along with those of other hospitals in the area, mean in terms of health to the people of Ulster county."

"A few months ago, when I last visited the hospital and saw patients in beds in the corridors, I was reminded of the overcrowded conditions which prevailed a quarter of a century ago before the present hospital building was constructed. As one who has always kept Kingston close to his heart, I find myself reacting warmly to the news that the people of Kingston, once again confronted by these conditions, are taking steps to bring the hospital's facilities up to date."

"Back in 1925, when it appeared that the construction program then planned would cost $500,000, such an amount could not be obtained in contributions, but the objective was over-subscribed. I am sure that the news that the present project will require an investment of $850,000 has raised an eyebrow here and there along Broadway. I am confident that the people will once again respond to the challenge and that there will be another gratifying over-subscription."

Dr. Chandler commented enthusiastically on the fact that the building program, in addition to making available more beds for the special care of patients, will create a special section in which the chronically ill may receive long-term hospital care at minimum cost.

"Because more people are living to be older these days," he said, "there is steadily increasing need for special hospital accommodations for those aged persons who need more or less routine care rather than the full services of the modern general hospital. I noted recently that the New York State Joint Hospital Survey and Planning Commission recommended the establishment of 137 beds for chronic patients in Ulster county, and I compliment the members of the board of the Kingston Hospital for deciding that a substantial number of beds for this type of patient should be included in the building program." Dr. Chandler noted also that the project wisely calls for the modernization of many existing facilities, rather than for their replacement. "The hospital which the people of Kingston built for themselves in 1926 was carefully planned," he observed "and, with modifications in keeping with developments since that time, it can serve effectively for many years to come."

Tall, erect and alert, Dr. Chandler, as he talked with the interviewer at his club in Manhattan recently, looked far younger than his 77 years. A glance at the record of his life, as it appears in "Who's Who," caused the reporter to marvel at the fact that the surgeon had found time to do so much.

The doctor attended Syracuse University and was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University in 1895. Following a brief period of practice in New York city, including three years of service at the turn of the century as assistant visiting surgeon at St. Vincent's Hospital, he went to Kingston, where he practiced until his retirement in 1932.

Although he became one of New York State's busiest and best known surgeons, Dr. Chandler took time to serve in the New York National Guard, going to the Mexican border, and later during World War I to Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, as a lieutenant colonel in the medical corps. He is now a member of the advisory board of the Second Service Command of the U. S. Army.

An interest in police work led to Dr. Chandler's appointment, in 1917, as organizer and first superintendent of the New York State Police Department a post he held for seven years, during the course of which he organized the first state school for police under the Regents established in the United States. Later, Governor Alfred E. Smith named him to the State Crime Commission and Franklin D. Roosevelt, when governor, appointed him as his personal representative in the investigation of the Auburn Prison Riots in 1929.

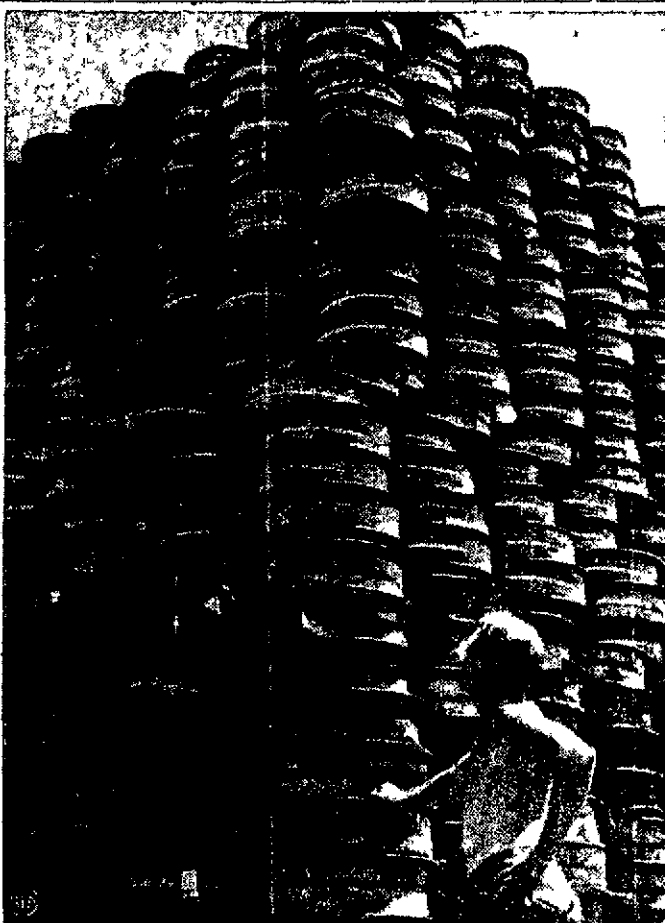

The doctor's record includes other public services in the field of workmen's compensation besides several activities in the administration of public affairs in the city of Kingston.

The retired physician's endorsement of the building program and the fund-raising movement now under way was hailed today as "most significant" by officials of the non-profit, community hospital.

"Dr. Chandler's interest in Kingston has been a lifelong one," John D. Schoonmaker, Jr., president of the board of trustees, remarked, "and his expression of support is most gratifying. Aside from the personal reasons which many of us have for admiring him, his accomplishments in medicine and in the service of the state and nation give him a stature which lends impressive weight to his opinions."

Girl, 4, Goes Home

New York, Sept. 12.—Nine days after she fell out of a 10-story window, four-year-old Karen Weiler walked out of the hospital yesterday, smiling and hugging a new doll. The little girl plunged out of a small ventilating window in the big Stuyvesant Town Housing Project, landing on the grass. Next day at the hospital she wanted to go home. The doctors, who could find nothing wrong with her, kept her the rest of the time for observation.

Traces of Men Sought

New Cumnock, Scotland, Sept. 12.—(P)—Miners still sought traces of 13 entombed men in the Knockshinnoch mine today but officials said they had abandoned hope the missing men were alive. One hundred and sixteen miners trapped on the 72-foot level in the cave-in last Thursday, were rescued Saturday and Sunday. Searchers reported they found no trace of the other 13 except tools apparently dropped as they fled an avalanche of mud and coal which blocked off the main shaft.

THE TAX OUTLOOK
The American taxpayer has been put on notice that a larger amount of withholding income tax is to be siphoned out of his pay in October, and thereafter. Though Congress may be slow in working up the tax boost law, there will be nothing slow about the tax collector. No doubt it's just as well. The Treasury needs the money, and the taxpayer in the end will pay only what Congress decrees. If the unhappy truth were known, it probably is that we can spare the money better now than next spring.

About one-fifth more will be deducted from the pay envelope for the rest of this year. Is that a fair indication of the increased burden of direct individual taxes as a result of the world's troubles? No; that added one-fifth is only a beginning. The budget of expected government expenses for the current year already has been increased by at least half, and more additions are under discussion, reckoned in round figures of fives and tens of billions. Nor is there any end of increasing costs in sight as long as the international situation continues to become worse instead of better.

The prospect of the American taxpayer is that for many years his taxes will be at the highest level the government thinks he will accept. A happier outlook would require two accomplishments. The relations of the United States with the other great powers, especially Russia, would have to be put on a basis which would assure peace. Government would have to be turned away from constant, multiplying expansion and toward reduction and simplification. It is either these two things or higher and ever higher taxes, year after year.

It cannot be repeated too often that Communism's promise of economic equality is mere bait to catch the unwary. What the leaders want is absolute power for themselves. They will grant a kind of equality to those below them, it is true, but it is like the equality of the inmates of a prison.

SOUND OF MORNING
The sound of morning isn't what it used to be. Long ago the clomp-clomp of the milkman's horse was silenced with rubber shoes or traded for the muffled exhaust of a gasoline engine. The clinking glass bottle was giving way to the non-clinking cardboard container, when the milkman himself came up with a more drastic step. He stopped coming before breakfast.

The tapping night-stick of the policeman faded before the silent tread of the squad car. The iron-tired wagons which clattered over brick or cobblestones on lonely dawn errands have vanished. Now even the rattling garbage can may be doomed, for someone has invented a rubber one with a lid which makes no sound on can or pavement. Soon it'll be so all-fired quiet no one will be able to sleep.

ON GIVING BLOOD
One of the materials of war is blood. In former days the blood was entirely that of the men who gave it up on the battlefield, and its loss was final. Now medical science has made it possible for the people at home to give, without significant personal loss, a part of this blood, and thereby replace at least a portion of that shed in battle. This blood means life for many who otherwise would die. The need for blood is now, and the Red Cross is ready to accept it.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

IT COULD HAPPEN
A reader from Great Falls, Mont., writes me: "Now that the government has taken over the railroads to operate, would it not be well to set the salaries of trainmen and conductors, engineers, etc. at soldiers wages, namely the pay that a buck sergeant, a technical sergeant, and a master sergeant would draw. If that was done, it seems to me, the rank and file of men would soon have the government get out of the railroad business."

This is the old argument heard in World War I and in World War II about war profiteers, owner-producers, management-producers, black-market-producers and the worst of all, politician-producers. For instance, I have for years been wondering about a figure like Robert Hannegan, who came to Washington from Missouri, became chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and postmaster general. These positions do not draw high pay, and, besides, Hannegan died them at a period of high income taxes. Yet, he died a comparatively rich man. How does a man manage to manipulate capital that way?

The last war and its immediate aftermath produced many rich men, obviously rich men. It also produced high wages and tremendously improved working conditions. It also produced a plethora of subsidies for many segments of the American population. It also reduced the value of the dollar and an inflation which is now getting worse.

Those who profiteer in wartime are often the fathers of sons who are dying in the same war. They profiteer and complain about taxes and fail to connect their personal conduct with inadequate supplies at the front because they cost too much. And so-called fifth round wage increase can only mean that every shot and shell, every airplane and submarine will cost that much more. And that can only mean that taxes must go up, the national debt must go up, the real value, the purchasing value of money must go down. Around Christmas-time, every American will discover, when he needs cash money most, that his dollar has lost considerable value.

Of course, Christmas comes in December and the congressional elections come in November, and between the two dates something may be done to stem the inflation, if it is not, by then, too late. Inflation is an exceedingly poisonous operation, particularly in time of war, and most especially in a war that is not going so well.

Let us ignore the railroad strike and have a look, instead, at the electrical strike. In this situation there is a quarrel between two unions, the U. E. (United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers of America), which is Communist-controlled and pro-Stalin, and the I. U. E. (Intl. Union of Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers), which is C.I.O. outfit that is reputedly anti-Communist. The U. E. was kicked out of the C.I.O. in the housecleaning that occurred last year, although it had been in the C.I.O. since its existence. With Communist leadership of importance. The I. U. E. was organized by the C.I.O. to combat the U. E. and to take over its controls.

The hope of the I. U. E. was that the management of the electrical companies would rush headlong into its arms, cooing the workers to leave the U. E. and to join the I. U. E. For once, most management showed wisdom. They held that the workers themselves must determine what union they choose to accept as their agency for representation and collective bargaining.

The workers were of a divided mind. Some voted for the U. E.; some for the I. U. E. And there was the possibility always that in subsequent votes the workers would change their minds. The I. U. E. would like the whole business. But the workers would have to decide that, not management. Therefore, there is an organization strike designed to prove that the I. U. E. can do better than the U. E. Then the U. E. would have to try to lure the unions it controls and we shall have a ring-around-rose.

That is precisely the situation in wartime in an essential war industry—in fact, in the most essential war industry upon which depend the lives of our sons fighting not only in Korea but preparing to fight on other fronts.

Maybe some people hold the lives of their sons lightly. Maybe some of them have forgotten their own war experiences. Maybe some just don't think. (Copyright, 1950, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

THE ETHICS OF A PHYSICIAN
Most people know that physicians have a code of ethics or behavior that they must follow to be recognized as living up to the standards of the profession in their relation to the world in general, to other members of the medical profession, and to the sick.

In Post Graduate Medicine, Dr. Morris Fishbein, formerly editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, outlines the doctor's duties in relation to the groups above noted. In describing the International Code of Medical Ethics adopted by the World Medical Association, as to the duties of doctors to the sick, he states:

"A doctor must always bear in mind the importance of preserving human life from the time of conception until death.

"A doctor owes his patients complete loyalty and all the resources of his science. Whenever an examination or treatment is beyond his capacity, he should summon another doctor who has the necessary ability.

"A doctor owes to his patient absolute secrecy on that which has been confided to him or which he knows because of the confidence entrusted to him.

"A doctor must give the necessary treatment in emergency, unless he is assured that it can and will be given by others."

It is this matter of a doctor not leaving his office to attend to an emergency that is misunderstood by many. A doctor in his office during office hours may have 10 to 20 patients waiting for his attention, many having come long distances and at great inconvenience and some whose condition may be as dangerous as that of the emergency. Fortunately in many communities, large and small, the Academy of Emergency Medicine or other organization makes itself responsible for emergency calls and sends a physician to answer emergency calls such as heart strokes, brain strokes and serious accidents.

I have not mentioned the other duties which should and must be performed by the ethical doctor in relation to the public in general and to his brother doctors, but we all should know of the doctor's duties to the sick.

One duty of the patient to his doctor is to call his doctor by telephone before bedtime, as some timely advice may allow the doctor to get a night's rest.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—A significant intelligence report on China's negotiations with Russia on the vital question of coming in or staying out of the Korean war has just been received in Washington.

Obviously it is impossible to know how accurate these reports are regarding such important figures as Molotov and Mao Tse-tung. However, here is what they are supposed to have talked about in their recent Peiping meeting.

Molotov, who is Stalin's Far East manager, was unable to budge Mao, China's Communist boss, on the Korean war. Mao is reported to have refused point-blank to intervene in the Korean war or to set a date for the invasion of Formosa, or to attack British Hong Kong or Portuguese Macao.

Finally, after much wrangling, a 5-point program was agreed to: 1. Russia will send limited troops as "volunteers" to Korea north of the 38th parallel. This, of course, would relieve North Korean troops to fight south of the 38th parallel.

2. China will patrol the Manchurian-Korean border. 3. Molotov and Mao will meet again this month to reach an agreement on the invasion of Formosa, but Mao has been putting them off week after week. This was one reason why President Truman cracked down on MacArthur when he shot off his uncontrolled statement on Formosa.

4. Mao's government will help re-equip Viet Minh forces in Indo-China for a new, all-out offensive. Note—The above intelligence report is chiefly based on British information, the British having much better sources than we do in the Orient.

Mystery Wire-Tap Witness
There is something awfully peculiar about the way the Justice Department claimed it couldn't locate the mysterious missing witness in the wire-tapping case, Henry Grunwald, then suddenly produced him in another case after the statute of limitations had run on Senator Brewster's wire-tappings. Grunwald, who worked for Pan American World Airways at the time of the wire-tapping, and was intimate with chief wire-tapper Lieut. Joe Shimon, is a well-known person about town. But for some strange reason he evaporated into thin air.

Grunwald has a $75,000 home at Valhalla, N. Y., a $85,000 home at Spring Lake, N. J., and owns considerable property in the district of Columbia, including a five-acre tract in the fashionable suburb. He owns three automobiles, including a limousine, which is frequently seen parked outside the Senate.

Inside, he is chiefly in the office of Senators Brewster of Maine and Bridges of New Hampshire. He also has an apartment at the swank Westchester, has maintained an office in the Munsey building and a suite in the Washington Hotel which he shares with the former Secretary of War and ex-Governor of Kansas Harry Woodring. Lieut. Shimon, the wire-tapping cop, also occupied this suite as a guest of Woodring's and Grunwald's; and the other night when a Senate investigator called, who should poke his head out of the suite but William Power Maloney, close friend of Senator Brewster's and attorney for Lieut. Shimon.

Grunwald has also been frequently seen in the company of War Assets Administrator Jesse Larson, and is so often in Senator Brewster's office that he is treated as if he were a member of the office force. Senator Bridges also seems solicitous about Grunwald. When a representative of this column called at Grunwald's Munsey building office, its occupants professed complete amazement that Grunwald had ever been in the office. Yet, in the next room, someone hastily and surreptitiously phoned Senator Bridges to warn: "They're trying to find Henry."

How Grunwald, an immigrant from Europe, made all his money, remains a mystery. But he is reported to be one of the most highly paid undercover lobbyists in Washington. "Photograph-Needle" Schoepfel The backstage decision to have mousy Senator Schoepfel of Kan-

Spenders Are Behind Move to Get Excess Profits Tax at Once in House

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Sept. 12—One of the invisible phenomena of the current session of Congress is the momentum behind the drive to get an excess profits tax bill passed right away.

It took all the influence of the administration, and particularly of the Treasury Department, and all the power of a Republican-Democratic coalition to shove the proposed bill in the Senate. But this doesn't explain why the pressure was exerted there and in the House to get such a measure written hastily into law.

The basic reason, of course, is that an excess profits tax will lead to an excess of spending and to a wage inflation. A company that considers it will have to pay as much as 70 to 80 cents out of a profit-dollar to the government becomes less interested in what it spends than in what it saves.

Labor unions have had the idea that they would benefit immediately even from the application of an excess profits tax law retroactively to 1950 earnings. The theory seems to have prevailed that companies would suddenly increase their pay levels because they could have to give the bill enacted right away.

But this presupposed, of course, that while the government would control profits and prices, it would not control wages. Recalling the slow-moving experience on this factor during the last war, labor unions felt that they could move up their wage scales at the last quarter of 1950 and pave the way for further increases in 1951 before the wage-stabilization machinery would get going.

On the surface, the proponents of the excess profits tax have talked a lot about stopping "profiteering." They frequently refer to the blood being spilled in Korea and how important it is to make sacrifices on the dollar side. But the truth is that there are various kinds of profiteering besides increases in prices or earnings. The profiteering in wage scales has already begun. Though the cost of living has dropped since the howling panic reached its peak in 1949, demand from the major labor unions is for increasing wages, anyway. Even contracts that did not permit reopening during the year 1950 were forced open by threats of strike or so-called unauthorized walkouts.

Only the other day William Green, president of the A.F.L., said publicly that it would not be right to put on wage freezes as stabilization until wages catch up with the recent rises in living costs. What is stabilization really except to prevent such upward spirals?

There are not, moreover, going to be any such profit margins for companies in 1950 or 1951 as appropriations by Congress for defense equipment and construction are far behind the actual expenditures. It is doubtful whether very much money will be spent on the war program in the year 1950 anyhow. In fact, the latest figures indicate that, because of the lag in spending, there may actually be a balanced federal budget in the fiscal year ending June 30 next. It is by the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952, that there will be a deficit, and even this will not be as much larger than the budget deficit for the year which ended June 30, 1950, unless, of course, large-scale war breaks out.

The increase in straight corporation tax rates already applicable to part of the year 1950 will bring in a sizeable revenue. The business of the government also will not be as big in the first half of 1951 as the headlines about spending may have indicated.

As for writing an excess profits tax bill, that is a real job for technical experts. The large companies, with big profits to use in computing their new rate on the basis of 1948-1949 will come out very well, whereas the struggling smaller companies will come out with heavy penalties. This happened before. The so-called "hardship" clauses of the law which are supposed to alleviate the troubles of the smaller business cannot work the paper they are written on. The big companies certainly have an opportunity to lengthen their lead over smaller competitors, and the excess profits tax does that trick for them.

The enactment, therefore, of an excess profits tax law to apply to 1950 cannot be expected to bring about the opposition in business circles. Large business enterprises will promptly adjust themselves to an excess profits tax applicable at the beginning of January 1951. Small businesses, as usual, will get hurt. The so-called "liberals" and radicals will forget them because these proponents of the excess profits tax law are not, to be sure, the friends of small business. They are really the undeclared allies of inflation.

New York, Sept. 11—Harold Steinfeld, a cocky little guy with a hair line that has receded almost to the back of his neck, announces that he has agreed to put up a department store building for Jacobson's, his business rival, across the street from Steinfeld's department store at Stone and Pennington, Tucson, at a cost of a million dollars. Jacobson's is deserting its old home on Congress street, and Mr. Steinfeld has visions of Pennington street, Tucson, as the Park avenue of the southwest.

Only the other day William Green, president of the A.F.L., said publicly that it would not be right to put on wage freezes as stabilization until wages catch up with the recent rises in living costs. What is stabilization really except to prevent such upward spirals?

There are not, moreover, going to be any such profit margins for companies in 1950 or 1951 as appropriations by Congress for defense equipment and construction are far behind the actual expenditures. It is doubtful whether very much money will be spent on the war program in the year 1950 anyhow. In fact, the latest figures indicate that, because of the lag in spending, there may actually be a balanced federal budget in the fiscal year ending June 30 next. It is by the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952, that there will be a deficit, and even this will not be as much larger than the budget deficit for the year which ended June 30, 1950, unless, of course, large-scale war breaks out.

The increase in straight corporation tax rates already applicable to part of the year 1950 will bring in a sizeable revenue. The business of the government also will not be as big in the first half of 1951 as the headlines about spending may have indicated.

As for writing an excess profits tax bill, that is a real job for technical experts. The large companies, with big profits to use in computing their new rate on the basis of 1948-1949 will come out very well, whereas the struggling smaller companies will come out with heavy penalties. This happened before. The so-called "hardship" clauses of the law which are supposed to alleviate the troubles of the smaller business cannot work the paper they are written on. The big companies certainly have an opportunity to lengthen their lead over smaller competitors, and the excess profits tax does that trick for them.

The enactment, therefore, of an excess profits tax law to apply to 1950 cannot be expected to bring about the opposition in business circles. Large business enterprises will promptly adjust themselves to an excess profits tax applicable at the beginning of January 1951. Small businesses, as usual, will get hurt. The so-called "liberals" and radicals will forget them because these proponents of the excess profits tax law are not, to be sure, the friends of small business. They are really the undeclared allies of inflation.

New York, Sept. 11—Harold Steinfeld, a cocky little guy with a hair line that has receded almost to the back of his neck, announces that he has agreed to put up a department store building for Jacobson's, his business rival, across the street from Steinfeld's department store at Stone and Pennington, Tucson, at a cost of a million dollars. Jacobson's is deserting its old home on Congress street, and Mr. Steinfeld has visions of Pennington street, Tucson, as the Park avenue of the southwest.

Jacobson's store has been running 54 years and Steinfeld's began in Santa Fe 36 years ago. Jacobson's was founded by Carlos Jacobson, who was born in Ceres, Sonora, Mexico, in 1870. He was prominent in all respectable phases of life in the Arizona territorial days and the Jacobsons who run the store today are his six sons. Both stores are still owned and operated by the families which founded them, a remarkable fact in the day of chain operation and distant remote ownership. Carlos Jacobson began to learn store-keeping as a little boy working for the L. Jacobson Company in the late seventies. This was the forerunner of Albert Steinfeld and Co.

Aaron, Louis and William Zeckendorf began business in Santa Fe at the end of the trail, in 1884.

Senate Delays O'Dwyer Ruling

Washington, Sept. 12 (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today delayed any final decision to-day after questioning former Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York city about his appointment as ambassador to Mexico.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) said O'Dwyer probably will be called for additional questioning later—possibly tomorrow—by Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) and other committee members.

Several protests have been registered with the committee against confirmation of O'Dwyer's nomination to succeed Walter Thurston, career diplomat, at Mexico City.

Connally said most of today's questioning, which took place behind closed committee doors, revolved around O'Dwyer's record as district attorney in Brooklyn before he became mayor.

Henry V. Poor, a Republican candidate for Congress against Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. (Dem.-A.L.P.-N.Y.) in New York, handed reporters a copy of a statement which Connally said Poor had read to the committee.

Connally said that the grand jury report later was expunged from the court records by the presiding judge.

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—Railroad stocks surged ahead to the highest average level since 1931 in today's market.

Leading carriers issues pounded ahead for gains running to around $3 a share.

Strong demand for rail shares helped carry the entire market forward for the sharpest rise in around three weeks. And to just under the highest point touched in the past four years.

Trading in rails and a couple of stocks of junk business, a generous portion of junk business.

Favored issues included Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Railway, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Seaboard Air Line, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, Standard Oil (N.J.), General Motors, and U. S. Rubber.

In the curb higher prices were paid for Argus, Inc., Aspinlock, Cities Service, Electric Bond & Share, Mining Corp. of Canada, Thor Corp. and U. S. Foll "B".

Corporate bonds loomed along more or less aimlessly. Longterm U. S. Government bonds tended lower in over-the-counter dealings.

Today's rise caught a good many traders off guard. For one thing, an important Jewish religious holiday started at sundown.

County Rally Set For October 16; Projects Listed

Braided Rugs

There is no project that gives a woman a bigger thrill than making a beautiful braided rug that harmonizes with the color scheme of the room in which it is to be used. Made from cast off woolen garments, a braided rug costs almost nothing. It does take time, however, to accumulate the necessary materials to produce a rug that is well desired. For that reason, leaders are reeking training in the project over a six months period. They, in turn, will help their class enrollees to anticipate this project

Toothbrush rugs, scheduled to be taught in the units this fall, are made from cotton jersey that is color fast and washable. Leaders already have completed many attractive rugs. Homemakers will certainly want to avail themselves of the opportunity to learn how to make these useful rugs for the kitchen, bedroom, bathroom, dining room, hall and living room.

Book Reviews

Miss Marie Gustafson, state librarian, will meet leaders in November to give them ideas on good reading for the family and man, each co-sharing the honor of being the largest tanker in the world. When completed, they each can carry 11,500,000 gallons of petroleum products. Later in the month at the same yard the "big" tanker liner President Adams will take the same plunge as the President Jackson. On June 4 at Quincy, it will be the Constitution the companion Mediterranean luxury liner to the recently launched Independence.

There was little or no money in circulation and trading was done with nuggets, hides, hay, beans or whatever else the land produced. It was not simply a place where merchandise was bought and sold. It was an establishment where prospective young industries were fostered, financed and developed."

"Many of the old settlers were given long extended credit and of course, some failed. This often put the company into various types of businesses. Almost all of the famous mines of southern Arizona were at one time owned and operated by my father's company. They were the fiscal agents for the old Copper Queen mine at Bisbee, whose headquarters were in my father's Tucson office. This became the Phelps-Dodge Company's original holding. Professor Douglas, the grandfather of our ambassador to Great Britain, was my father's mining engineer. With my father's consent, he presented the Bisbee mines to Phelps-Dodge and brought the company to Arizona."

"Many of the leading cattle ranches of today, farm lands and industries of southern Arizona, were owned operated or developed by my father's company. Considering that this region belonged to Mexico until 1893, ours is an interesting record. A century in this part of the country covers more history than in the east."

I had asked Harold particularly about the abolition of gambling in Tucson where nowadays even the few slot machines which are used to carry the deficits of a few private clubs are considered to be a device of the devil.

"Tucson being the largest city in Arizona Territory naturally had the largest and most notorious gambling halls," he answered. "Fiza Bartlett operated the most fashionable and lavish gambling house, called the Legal Tender. He was considered a substantial citizen. When his luck was bad, he borrowed from leading citizens. He always paid his debts."

"A young confidence man started from New York with his wife, a good looking girl, and rooked the leading banker or other leading citizen of almost every town where he stopped. The victim never squealed because he was ashamed to. It was different with my dad."

"Through Bartlett's introduction, my father loaned this man about $20,000. He put up a dazzling collection of jewels as security. He disappeared and Bartlett would not accept any liability. The man was found and convicted and the only prominent man who had had the courage to take the publicity. The jewels were appraised and found to be worthless. My father organized the substantial citizens and declared war on the gamblers. He induced his old friend, General L. H. Manning, who had been surveyor-general of the territory, to run for mayor on a platform to kill gambling. Manning was elected and ordinances were enacted spelling the death of gambling institutions. My father thought Bartlett had broken faith. That was enough for the pioneers."

Opening lead—♦ 2

Most good players can read the meaning of the plays made by their opponents. The real expert goes one step farther. He reads the meaning of the plays that his opponents fail to make. This is a difficult point to explain, but one example is worth a hundred explanations. Let us examine a hand recently played by Larceny Lou.

The bidding was reasonable enough. Against a spade opening lead, West would have been down only one at four hearts. North was afraid that his vulnerable opponents could actually make four hearts. His bid of four spades (which he knew could not be badly beaten) was in the nature of an insurance policy. He preferred to take a small loss rather than risk a big one.

West opened the door of diamonds, and Larceny Lou put up dummy's queen without hesitation. East very nearly made the mistake of playing the king of diamonds. He caught himself just in time and played a low diamond.

His first trap having failed, Lou led a trump from dummy while cooking up his next little plot. West took the ace of spades and returned a trump.

At this point Lou realized that East had the singleton king of hearts.

West's bidding made it clear that he had either six or seven hearts. Why had he not led the suit? His opening lead had obviously been a singleton and it was possible that he had opened the singleton diamond even though he held a leadable heart suit. However after he won with the ace of spades, West would not return a trump if he held a heart combination from which a lead seemed desirable.

If West held all of the seven missing hearts he would surely hold a leadable combination if he held only six hearts, which one could be missing? Only if West lacked the king would the suit appear unleadable to him.

In other words, Lou read the meaning of West's failure to lead hearts. Having found out that East held the singleton king of hearts, Lou was now able to plan a new swindle.

Lou drew the rest of West's trumps, cashed the ace of diamonds and the top clubs, ruffed a club in dummy, and ruffed dummy's last diamond in his own hand. The stage was now set and Lou nonchalantly led a low heart from his own hand.

By this time West was down to four cards, all of them hearts. Seeing a low heart led from the South hand towards dummy's ten, West played the jack. As Lou had foreseen, this trick was won by East's blank king.

Now East had to return a suit that allowed dummy to ruff while South discarded a heart loser. Since this held the loss in hearts to only two tricks, Lou succeeded in making his contract.

It is important to note that Lou had to lead the hearts eventually from his own hand. If hearts were led from the dummy, East would play his king, and West would have a chance to overtake with his ace. West would then cash the queen and jack of hearts, setting the contract.

Moose Lodge Gets Al Bernie to Head September 29 Ball

Kingston Lodge 970, Loyal Order of the Moose, is bringing back to Kingston one of the biggest attractions in the master of ceremonies field ever to appear at the municipal auditorium for its benefit ball scheduled Friday night, September 29.

He is Al Bernie, the clever comedian who featured the Thanksgiving Eve ball at the auditorium in 1948.

Bernie will head an all-star list of performers including his lovely wife, Charlene Russell, Belle Baker and several others.

Highlights of the entertainment bill were announced this morning by Casper Zellekman prominent downtown merchant who runs his business under the name of Cappy Zellekman is general chairman of the ball program.

Part of the proceeds of the September 29 ball will go to the Ulster County Infantile Paralysis fund and part will be given to the Moose Haven and Moose Heart two organizations sponsored by the Moose Lodge.

Following Bernie's personal appearance in Kingston two years ago, the young comedian was launched by the Columbia Broadcasting System into the television field and during eight months he was rated among the 10 best T-V comedians.

Since his successful video show Al has been in demand as a guest star. His most outstanding triumph proved to be in appearance on the Ed Sullivan "Toast-of-the-Town" program where he faced the dim prospect of following Bob Hope. His opening line was "all right, Hope, drop the pencil" and he went on to one of the most successful appearances ever accomplished on the Sullivan program.

Bernie, although still in his 20's, has a long theatrical record since he was born backstage at a vaudeville theatre in Philadelphia. He has completed record-breaking engagements at the Roxy Theatre and the Copacabana in New York. Audiences now know Bernie for his fresh gag material, ad-libbing ability and delightful personality.

His personal appearance on the Moose entertainment bill is expected to swell the crowd at the September 29 ball.

Further details on other stars appearing at the show will be announced.

Need for Strength

Los Angeles, Sept. 12 (AP)—The United States can achieve peace through strength, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt told more than 1,500 persons at a Democratic Party rally last night. We must make the Communists believe that we actually mean what we say—that we really want peace in the world. A total war will mean much of the destruction of civilization as you and I have known it," she said.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

DIVORCE COMPLICATION

A divorce complication is described as follows: "My father and mother are divorced and it has been years since we've heard anything direct from father. We are friendly with his relatives when we happen to meet, but that's all we see them. Should any of them be invited to the announcement party Mother is giving here at our house to announce my engagement?"

Judging by what you tell me, my answer is no.

Name to Use on Announcements

Dear Mrs. Post: Whose name would be the logical one to use on my marriage announcement? My parents are deceased, and I've lived with my grandmother and two maiden aunts for years. They are my mother's relatives. I have a brother who has not lived with us. He's now married living in a nearby town.

Answer: Your grandmother's alone, is very definitely the proper one.

Housewarming Details

Dear Mrs. Post: We've been married for two years and have now bought a house. I'd like to give a housewarming as soon as we're properly settled but don't have the faintest idea how to go about it. Will you give me the details?

Answer: You merely invite people who you know well, and like, to come to a very simple party—perhaps a buffet supper or maybe just simple refreshments later in the evening.

May Wife Give Stag Party?

Dear Mrs. Post: Can a husband be given a "stag party" by his wife? How?

Answer: In the sense of her paying the bill for it, yes; in the sense of her being present, very definitely no!

"Immediate Family"

Dear Mrs. Post: In connection with a wedding are an aunt and uncle considered "immediate family"?

Answer: No, only grandparents, parents and sisters and brothers.

Safe Comes Back

Victoria, B. C. (AP)—Like a bad penny an old 800-pound safe is the bugbear of Hall, Richard and Sons, coal dealers here. It just keeps turning up. Trying to get rid of the safe several years ago, the firm left it on a vacant lot. Kindly citizens returned it. The coal dealers buried the safe on the same spot—hoping to see the last of it. But a bulldozer recently unearthed it while working on an excavation for a building in the empty lot. Detectives hunted up the owners to return it. A partner of the firm said: "It's going to the junk pile—I hope for keeps."

Rehabilitation Expert Tells Sorosis Club Handicapped Persons Earn Millions Yearly

Robert Whitcomb, representative of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the State Education Department, told a meeting of the Sorosis Club last night that there are 1,500,000 physically handicapped persons in the United States today, and that about 250,000 will be added to this number each year due to accidents and other causes.

Declaring that employers should not be reluctant to hire the handicapped, Mr. Whitcomb told the club members that such persons have a better safety record, less absenteeism, better production totals and less turn-over than "normal" persons.

The emphasis should not be "what has the person lost?" but "what has he left with which to earn a living?" the speaker said. Up in June, 1929, some 53,000 handicapped persons had been helped to find gainful employment, he said, reviewing the efforts of the federal government and individual states in rehabilitation work, financial aid, and medical care.

New York state, he said, has six district offices and three sub-offices employing 450 workers to provide help for the handicapped. To be eligible for help, a person must have a permanent ailment which can be helped, and he must be of working age. Each individual is thoroughly tested and interviewed. Then treatment appliances and therapy are brought in, based upon his problem. Mr. Whitcomb declared. When ready, applicants are sent to vocational schools or given on-the-job training.

Ulster county has 26 cases receiving help at the present time, he said. Twenty-four of these are in Kingston.

Thanks to state and federal aid, handicapped persons are now earning $89,000,000 annually throughout the nation, he said, emphasizing that the rehabilitation work was neither welfare nor charity.

In New York state, 3,042 persons were helped last year, he said, adding that the scope of the program was extremely broad because tubercular patients, heart cases and epileptics were included in the category of the disabled.

Blind persons, however, are usually helped by another department, he said.

Noting the local interest in cerebral palsy, the speaker declared that these cases are "just learning how to live," and that many of them can learn how to earn a living.

There are no financial yardsticks to measure the difference between a self-reliant, happy worker carrying his own responsibilities, and a depressed citizen dependent on others for everyday needs, he concluded.

At the business meeting of the club, presided over by Mrs. William McVey, president, routine business was transacted and the program for the coming season was outlined by the chairman, Mrs. William Cols.

Miss Alice Scardfield, third district director, was among other guests present. She spoke briefly on plans for a county meeting to be held at Leher's restaurant October 5 at 1 p. m. All federated county groups will be invited to attend.

The next meeting of Sorosis will be held at the home of Mrs. A. W. Mollott on Manor avenue. It was announced. Mrs. Willard Burke will discuss "Cape Cod, Past and Present."

Tea was served at the close of the session by the committee in charge—Mrs. Conrad Heiselman and Mrs. Arthur J. Laidlaw. Mrs. McVey presided.

Movie Receives Wide Endorsement

"Stars in My Crown," which will be shown at the Broadway Theatre Wednesday through Saturday has received wide endorsement. Members of the Kingston Ministerial Association attended a special advance showing and according to the Rev. Burton F. Tarr, chairman of the association, those who saw the picture were unanimous in their enthusiastic endorsement of this production.

In a communication to Robert W. Case, manager of Reader's Theatre, the Rev. Mr. Tarr says:

"This picture tells the story of the effectiveness of applied religion in such a dramatic fashion that it cannot soon be forgotten. There is the kind of entertainment for the entire family that should receive universal acclaim."

I hope the people of our city will make "Stars in My Crown" a "must" on their movie calendar."

Manager Case declares that the picture is one of the finest family movies of the current year. He personally considers "Stars in My Crown" an exceptional entertainment and urges all to see it. Starring Joel McCrea, Ellen Drew and Dean Stockwell, it has been awarded the Parents' Magazine medal for outstanding merit. It is based on a series of Saturday Evening Post stories and the book by Joe David Brown that thrilled countless readers.

Chapman to Head Dewey Campaign; Split Might Help

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—New York state Republican leaders geared themselves to an all-out election campaign today in the comforting expectation of a wide-open Democratic split for mayor in New York city.

The G.O.P. high command, meeting here yesterday in a strategy conference with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, named Alger B. Chapman, Republican state committee treasurer, to manage a "hard-hitting, tough campaign."

At almost the same time, the Democrats got the bad news that acting Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri apparently is unshakable in his determination to run for mayor as an independent—with considerable support.

Gains Big Point

He gained a major point yesterday when the United Labor Committee, a unity group embracing A.F.L. and C.I.O. leaders, refused to switch from its recorded preference for Impellitteri to the regular Democratic candidate, Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora.

The committee said only that its position was unchanged, but it was understood that the action is not necessarily final. A number of C.I.O. unions, including co-chairman Michael J. Quill's Transport Workers Union, were believed ready to go over to Pecora if A.F.L. elements stay with Impellitteri.

Impellitteri turned down one of his last opportunities to withdraw yesterday when he formally accepted his nomination by the "experience party" as required by state law.

Could Still Withdraw

He could still withdraw, legally, however, and possibly accept a Tammany designation to a $25,000-a-year Supreme Court judgeship—but he now is believed unlikely to do so.

On the Republican side, Impellitteri's bolt gave the G.O.P. candidate, State Industrial Commissioner Edward Corsi, the best chance of a Republican city victory since the administration of the late F. H. LaGuardia.

Whether the split would help the G.O.P. state ticket in New York city was doubtful, however, as the fight is bound to bring out a heavy Democratic vote. Also, Impellitteri has formally announced his support of his party's state ticket—Rep. Walter A. Lynch for governor and Sen. Herbert Lehman for re-election.

Former Tax Official

Chapman, an attorney whose home is at Loudenville, near Albany, is a former state tax commissioner. He directed Dewey's 1946 campaign and was his state manager in the 1948 presidential race.

His appointment, the only announced fruit of the strategy meeting, was revealed by State G.O.P. Chairman William L. Pfeiffer.

The state's other major candidate is Lt. Gov. Joseph R. Hanley, who opposes Senator Lehman. Pfeiffer said he did not know when Governor Dewey will take the road on his active campaign for re-election.

In another political move yesterday, the Liberal party accepted all the major Democratic candidates as its own.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIRAUT, JR.

Loft Players End Year With Masque

Woodstock, Sept. 11—A gay carnival atmosphere pervaded the Maverick Theatre Saturday night when the Loft Players presented a "Farewell Masque" as their final bow of the season.

With confetti strewn decked booths and steps leading to the stage breaking the more formal theatre setting, audience and actors mingled to enjoy an evening of games, music and dancing, highlighted by a unique auction.

The fun began early when the Woodstock Chambers Orchestra set up traps and honks drums behind the piano at stage left. Surrounded by a growing crowd the orchestra was augmented by a number of Woodstock's more famous exponents of chamber music doubling on drums, wash tub bass and glockenspiel. As the versatile gentlemen switched instruments, took lead choruses and finally got off to a wondrous ride on a South African wooden number, it took on the atmosphere of a joint session worthy of a 57th street hot spot. Some of the audience took advantage of music for dancing but most were engrossed in watching and listening to the performance.

A novelty of the evening was introduced when the auction was announced first putting on the block a recording of a Mozart concerto plus a huge pink "Harvey" rabbit. This auction was different—no matter what one bid, whether he received the final prize, he had to pay the amount mentioned. Also auctioned off were the masks of the cock and horse used in the early production of "Alice in Wonderland." Serving as auctioneers were Eddie Mann, Ernie Jackson and Jose Quintero.

Although the "Masque" marked the end of the Maverick Theatre season, a number of members of the Loft Players presented a performance of "The Glass Menagerie" at Highmount Sunday night.

Buildings Are Sold

Woodstock, Sept. 11—The Woodstock school buildings and property on Main street, which will be vacated upon completion of the new school, were sold at auction last Saturday afternoon to Jack Clark for $19,000. Clark, a resident of Woodstock who returned from Europe last May, states that the property will be improved and used for business purposes.

Party Is Held Sunday

For Concert Workers
Woodstock, Sept. 11—Capt. C. H. Van der Loo, entertained the musicians and members of the committee for the Maverick concert series Sunday afternoon at a cocktail party at the Maverick Concert Hall.

Prominent Local Artists Showing New York Gallery

Woodstock, Sept. 12—A number of prominent Woodstock artists will be represented in the new Ganso Gallery, located at 125 East 57th street, in New York, in the first group exhibition of paintings, sculpture and ceramics from October 2, through the 28th.

Fanny Ganso, director of the new gallery writes the following comments concerning the venture:

"The new Ganso Gallery is an outgrowth of many active years in the art world. As director of the Weyhe Gallery and the Associated American Artists Galleries I sought out and presented to the public such artists, among others, as Bill Bomar, Ruth Gikow, Charles Salerno, Edward John Stevens as well as the group participating in this first exhibition. The response of art patrons and museums was encouraging and gratifying. It paved the way for the new gallery."

The artists represented in the opening exhibition are young outstanding talents whose original approach to their work and sound technical ability denote the trend and aims of the Ganso Gallery. Each of these artists will have a one man show during the coming exhibition series.

They are: Frank Gebhart, Ethel Kasil, Howard Mandel, Ethel Magafan, William Pachner and Lisa Shapiro.

"Of special interest are the ceramics by Carl Walters, one of America's foremost ceramic artists, whose work will be on view each month. Tomas Penning is represented by two new sculptures."

"The first exhibition also includes the work of the late Emil Ganso in whose studio and that of his friends I had the privilege of seeing at first hand the acknowledged pioneers of American art at work. Bearing in mind the essentials of good art I hope to continue to present artists whose creative ability will contribute some solid link, however small, to the dynamic chain of modern art."

Village Notes

Woodstock, Sept. 12—Harry Ostrander, his son Alfred, Paul Ostrander, DeWitt Shultis and Dick Short have returned home from a fishing trip at Baskatong Lake in Canada. All members of the party report a good catch with one weighing 17 pounds and measuring 40 inches in length.

Virginia Hastie attended the wedding of a friend in Baldwin, L. I., last week-end.

Woodstock, Sept. 11—Mrs. Eno Compton entertained at dinner Saturday night at the home of her mother, Mrs. Margaret R. Kenyon. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. David Carlson, George Compton and Anthony Robinson.

Joan Blondell and Michael Todd attended Sunday night's performance of "Fanny" at the Woodstock Playhouse.

Miss Constance Beedle, of Cantonburg, Pa., is vacationing with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schermer. Sidney Philip, M.G.M. talent scout saw the recent performance of "The Glass Menagerie" presented by the Loft Players and expressed interest in work of Ernie Jackson, who played the "Gentleman Caller."

Mrs. Henry Barclay entertained at a party Sunday afternoon.

Flee With Handcuffs And Takes Tree Too

Morristown, N. J., Sept. 12 (AP)—Five red-faced officers of the law would appreciate reports of the whereabouts of an escaped prisoner handcuffed to an uprooted tree.

Walbridge Vanderhoof, 25, charged with burglary and larceny, was taken from the county jail here yesterday to point out the location of a still.

Sheriff Arnold Ladd, two officers of the State Alcoholic Beverage Commission, and the police chiefs of Rockaway and Randolph townships accompanied the prisoner to Boonton township. There he pointed out a barn, and said it contained a still and possibly some stolen loot.

But he feared to go inside, he said, because members of his former gang might be in the barn, ready to ambush him.

So the five peace officers handcuffed Vanderhoof to a small tree, and stealthily entered the barn.

They found nothing inside.

When they came out, Vanderhoof was gone. So were the handcuffs and the tree.

No More Sirens

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—Sirens no longer scream along New York city streets. As a result, police, firemen and ambulances are having trouble speeding through traffic. The ban on their sirens, effective yesterday, was imposed by civilian defense officials, who ordered sirens used only as an air raid alert.

Boy Sounds False Alarm
A false alarm at 3:57 p. m., yesterday was traced to a five-year-old boy, firemen said today. The alarm was sounded from Box 1211 at Broadway and Henry street. The youngster was not at the scene when firemen arrived, but was identified later.

Passes on Controls
Ottawa, Sept. 12 (AP)—Canada's House of Commons passed and sent to the Senate last night a bill permitting government revival of wartime controls on installment buying to combat inflation.

Two Fishing Dragger Get Mysterious Tow

Portland, Me., Sept. 12 (AP)—Crewmen of two Portland fishing draggers have returned from a mysterious ocean tow ride which they say, scared them almost to death off Brier Island, N. S.

Skippers of the 110 foot Cherokee and the 80 foot Evzone told a strange story of how their vessels were towed helplessly last Wednesday night by an underwater object they could not see.

Was it a submarine? Probably, say skippers Arthur W. and Thomas Jordan. They told a newsman it might have been a Russian sub but added that their surmise was based only on their understanding that no American subs were in the area and that Canada has none.

Could it have been a whale? No, the skippers say, because whales can not stay submerged for such long periods.

The two rides followed each other. The Evzone was towed an hour and a half, the Cherokee about 25 minutes. Both craft had their sterns dragged beneath the water by a terrific haul. They were freed when their cables snapped from whatever was tugging them.

"It was a nightmare," said the skippers.

Plaster—at Foot of Class

Berlin (AP)—Students at Schoenbeck, in the Russian zone, eagerly went to work in the vacated building of a small chemical factory during their vacation to refit it as their new vocational school house. As building materials were short, they were happy to find several bags of lime in the basement and plastered the walls and ceilings with it. Then they drove a couple of nails into the wall, but the next morning found them on the floor. The "lime" was foot powder—a former product of the factory.

Where Allies and Reds Slug It Out

Arrows locate areas of ground action in South Korea Sept. 11, with some Allied gains reported in East sector (A) where the defenses of Yongchun have been secured. In the Taegu sector (B) a two-day artillery duel raged on with a fresh Red Korean offensive expected there any hour. In a third critical area west of Changhyong (C) Americans repulsed a Red attack in their Nakdong bulge. In the south (D) U. S. troops clung to hill positions three miles south of junction of the Nam and Nakdong rivers.

Early Through In Defense Post

Washington, Sept. 12 (AP) — Stephen Early resigned today as deputy secretary of defense.

President Truman accepted the resignation, effective Sept. 30, saying he did so reluctantly.

The White House said Early has been trying to quit since he completed the one year of duty he agreed to serve when he accepted the appointment May, 1949. He is to return to his post as a vice president of Pullman, Inc.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, who announced Early's action, declined again to comment on a report by a highly placed presidential adviser that Secretary of Defense Johnson is on his way out of the cabinet.

Asked whether Johnson is planning to resign, Ross said that he was "not a mind reader." Pressed further, Ross said "I have no information to give you on that point."

Johnson has been under fire in Congress and elsewhere in connection with the Korean war situation. His critics have contended he did not have the defense establishment in proper shape. President Truman has stood by the secretary consistently, however.

Four Vessels Are Missing in 'Cane

Halifax, Sept. 12 (AP) — Four small swordfishing vessels were missing today in a hurricane which struck off the southwest tip of Nova Scotia. A fifth, the Debutante, made the port of Wood's Harbor minus her deck house, spars and dories, swept away by mountainous seas and 73-mile-an-hour winds.

Unaccounted for are the vessels Emma Marie, Sir Echo, Afneith and Nickerson. Each vessel carries a crew of five or six and is equipped with radio.

The wooden-hulled freighter Vagabond Prince was sent from Yarmouth to search for the missing ships. All the vessels caught by the hurricane have been fishing out of Wood's Harbor, on the south-west tip of the province. They were 45 miles off shore when the blow hit. The Royal Canadian Air Force's search and rescue branch here said that probably their spars were carried away and radio antenna with them.

Americans Halt Air Wounded Evacuation

Washington, Sept. 12 (AP) —

Air evacuation of the seriously wounded from Korea has been halted because of the continued Communist threat to Taegu and its airfield.

This was disclosed today by the air force surgeon-general, Maj. Gen. Harry G. Armstrong, who said that plans are being made to resume air evacuation of wounded from rear areas less liable to interruption from Red thrusts.

Until mid-August, Armstrong told newsmen, the more seriously wounded men were flown from the big Taegu supply base direct to Japan. In Japan, they were distributed to army general hospitals or brought back to the United States.

Yanks Win Peak

large pockets of Red troops deep within Allied lines

The South Korean Eighth Division seized huge quantities of Red supplies. In two days, American officers with the division reported, they grabbed 31 field guns and heavy mortars and one carload each of heavy and small arms ammunition.

On the U. S. Second Division front west of Changhyong, a U. S. company of a "flushing expedition" killed 72 Reds and captured two and one-half tons of small arms.

The action took place in the Communists' Nakdong river bulge. Allied warplanes, striking five miles west of the river, destroyed or damaged four of 11 Red tanks.

To the north near Hyorung, the Reds continued to throw troops into their bridgehead 15 miles southeast of Taegu. They have been dug in there for weeks without attempting a drive.

South Korean police operating under British command, controlled, killed 35 Korean Reds. They swept through villages behind the British line along the Nakdong river north of Hyorung. Bands of Reds had infiltrated the British positions and were operating within eight miles of Taegu.

Allies in Command

The U. S. 25th Division front near Masan was quiet again Tuesday, giving the hard pressed "Lightning" Division another day of rest.

General MacArthur's headquarters said "all the high ground" commanding the Taegu-Tabu road on the northwest front was in allied hands.

A spokesman said the South Korean First Division seized high ground west of the highway, linking firmly with the U. S. First Cavalry Division's left flank.

North Korean prisoners told U. S. intelligence officers Red patrols had been ordered to take the Taegu airstrip north of the city Tuesday night.

Doughboys hastily dug foxholes in the airstrip's north side as a precaution.

Insist on Profits Tax

Washington, Sept. 12 (AP) — Ignoring Speaker Rayburn's statement that it can't be done, a crew of House members drove ahead today with plans to ram an excess profits tax into the $1,508,000,000 general tax boosting bill. "We're not licked yet," Representative Eberhardt (D-Pa.) told newsmen. "We will use every possible maneuver to put the House membership on record as to whether they want an immediate excess profits tax." The battle threatened to delay the effective date for individual tax increases, now set for October 1. Eberhardt is leading the group that seeks to put a $6,000,000,000 a year, levy on excess corporation profits into the pending tax bill. They propose a 95 per cent tax on any corporation's profits which exceed the 1946-49 average profits plus $10,000.

Jolson Goes to Tokyo

Los Angeles, Sept. 12 (AP) — Singer Al Jolson and retired air force Gen. Tooby Spatz left by Pan American Clipper early today for Tokyo. Jolson will entertain troops in the Korean war zone. Spatz is collecting literary material.
